

Contingent Liability Insurance

What is Contingent Liability Insurance?

Contingent liability insurance is bespoke insurance coverage designed to mitigate or eliminate exposures related to contingent risks to ensure a M&A deal can close quicker or a protracted exposure can be brought to meaningful and efficient resolution.

Why should you purchase Contingent Liability Insurance?

The coverage can be drafted to cover specific risks within a M&A Transaction where buyer and seller reach an impasse in closing the deal because of concerns with a contingent liability by having the risk posed by the contingent liability removed from the deal and separately insured.

The coverage allows an insured to transfer known litigation risks and can act as a stop-loss for current or pending litigation or as a hedge against a reversal of a judgment on appeal.

Breadth of coverage – contingent liability insurance can be drafted to cover:

- Litigation
- Environmental matters
- Intellectual property infringement
- Employment matters
- Securities and other class actions
- Antitrust exposures
- Products liability
- Fraudulent conveyance
- Foreign risks

Why should you choose DUAL Transactional Risk when purchasing your Transactional Liability Insurance Coverages?

DUAL Transactional Risk is centered around Underwriting Excellence

We bring a veteran underwriting team, with depth of experience in underwriting RWI, tax liability and contingent liability risks as well having served as legal counsel in underwriting, coverage, claims handling and policy drafting capacities, to its RWI underwriting.

Transactional liability insurance is a highly complex and bespoke line of insurance coverage, with terms, conditions and limitations offered or removed based on underwriting. Such a line of insurance requires a high degree of technical underwriting acumen, making it a natural fit for our experienced team.

Market leading policy forms drafted with clear and concise terms and conditions that are readily tailored in real time by our veteran underwriting team with its extensive policy drafting experience.

Significant Financial Backing and Claims Experience

Dual Transactional Risk has partnered with a S&P A+ rated U.S. commercial property and casualty insurer with more than a century of experience.

Claims are handled in-house with our insurer partner by a seasoned group of attorneys and claims professionals. This streamlined approach allows for timely response by a partner that has the both the expertise and the financial strength, giving our customers complete confidence throughout and beyond the transaction.

We will meet the needs of our Customers

Capacity to write deals for up to $30 million in limits either as a lead or participant in larger programs

Appetite across an expanse of industry sectors, including, energy, manufacturing, industrial, consumer products, financials services, media, telecommunications, technology, mining and utilities.

Appetite for underwriting deals in all enterprise value ranges from small to mega market sizes.